

The Lexington Gazette

VOLUME 102, NUMBER 3

LEXINGTON, VIRGINIA, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 17, 1906

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR

Fraternal Orders.

Rockledge Lodge, No. 88, I. O. O. F. meets every Thursday night, at Odd Fellows' Hall.
Lexington Lodge, No. 86, K. of P. meets every Tuesday night, at Odd Fellows' Hall.
Liberty Lodge, No. 2, Daughters of Rebekah, meets every Monday night, at Odd Fellows' Hall.
Mountain City Lodge, No. 67, Ancient York Masons, meets 1st and 3rd Monday nights at Masonic Hall.
Natural Bridge Council, No. 1990 Royal Arcanum, meets 1st and 3rd Friday nights in each month, at Odd Fellows' Hall.
Low Jackson Council, No. 99, Junior Order American Mechanics, meets every 2nd and 4th Friday nights at Odd Fellows' Hall.

Professional Cards

GREENLEE D. LETCHER,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEXINGTON, VA.
Notary Public.

PAUL M. PENICK,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEXINGTON, VIRGINIA.
Notary Public.

KENT E. PEERY,
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW
NOTARY PUBLIC.
LEXINGTON, VA.
Office in Room of Courthouse.
May-10-11.

J. PRESTON MOORE, FRANK MOORE
Late Clerk Co. Court Notary Public
MOORE & MOORE,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW,
LEXINGTON, VA.
Phone No. 12

DR. JOHN H. HARTMAN,
Dentist
Offices on Main Street, Lexington, Va.
Office Hours: 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., 4 to 6 p. m.
Phone No. 8.

FRANK T. GLASGOW & JOHN A. WHITE
GLASGOW & WHITE
ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW
Lexington, Va.
a-4-05

SAMUEL B. WALKER, JR.,
REAL ESTATE,
Rental and Insurance Agent,
LEXINGTON, VA.

INSURANCE

R.R. Witt & Co.
GENERAL
Fire Insurance
Represent Old Line Companies.

Job Printing

Letter Heads
Bill Heads
Dodgers
Envelopes
Handbills
Blanks
Cards
Posters
Circulars

and every species of printing satisfactorily done at The Gazette Office

Prices reasonable

SUBSCRIBE

FOR THE GAZETTE
only

One Dollar a Year

FOR SALE

My blacksmith and wheelwright shop, on Henry Street opposite John Shorland's stable. This shop is well located and has always had a good share of public patronage. I also have for sale some blacksmith tools, and a good parlor organ of latest design.
Apply to
JAMES M. SENESEY, or
Paul M. Penick, his attorney

EXCLUSIVE TAILORING Establishment

THE LYONS CLOTHING CO. wish to thank their friends for liberal patronage in their ready-made clothing and gent's furnishing departments, and ask a continuance of the same in their

Exclusive Tailoring Establishment
which they will continue at their old stand. Their room will be remodeled especially for HIGH GRADE TAILORING.

LYONS CLOTHING CO.

CORNER MAIN AND NELSON STS. Lexington, Va.

The Progressive Cash Store

STILL HAVE ON HAND A LOT OF Seasonable Winter Goods.

CONSISTING OF

Ladies' Dress Goods, Ladies' Men's, and Children's Underwear, Gloves, Shoes, Hosiery, Blankets, Bed Comforts, and many articles too numerous to mention. Will call especial attention to our Bargain Counter.

C. A. LACY & SON
Main St., Lexington, Virginia.

Animal and Poultry Foods

SWIFT'S DIGESTED TANKAGE, Swift's Blood Meal and Flour, Swift's Beef Scraps, Poultry Bone and Ideal Poultry Food.

Cotton Seed Meal, Wheat Bran, Shorts, Chop, Meal, Corn, Oats, Barley, and Wheat, Baled Hay, Shucks and Straw.

United Breeder's Dairy, Horse, Hog and Poultry Powders

Try our SWIFT'S FOODS and see what a difference it will make in its condition of your stock and poultry.

ROBINSON & HUTTON
Lexington, Virginia.

Save Your Money FARMERS!

By getting my prices on Grain Drills, Drill Repairs, Syracuse Plows and Repairs, Baggies, Harness. One-Horse Wagons, etc

Syracuse Harrows at Right Prices

Will positively sell you for less MONEY than you can buy elsewhere. As to Stoves of all kinds I defy competition; a car load just received.
Respectfully

W. F. PIERSON

CORNER MAIN AND HENRY STS. LEXINGTON, VA

Do You Wish to Buy a Vehicle?

YOUR ATTENTION IS INVITED TO MY

Carriages and Buggies and Other Vehicles

I CAN SUPPLY YOU WITH THE SERVICEABLE, NEAT AND BEAUTIFUL And fit you out with Harness, Collars, Whips and Robes

TO COMPLETE YOUR COMFORT

I have 20 OLD HICKORY WAGONS to be closed out at cost Low Wheels with old fashioned round coupling pole and band coupling.

Call and inspect at my warehouses

JAMES E. HECK

Nelson St., Lexington. Opposite Baptist Church

"Is Yours a Good Baby?"

Does your baby cry and refuse to go to sleep? Soothe the infant's nerves with DR. FAHNEY'S TEETHING SYRUP never known to fail. Many a man and woman who today bless the wife who gave him a healthy child, and who today are happy and contented, can be traced to the use of this simple, pleasant, and safe remedy. Can be given to babies one day old. Prevents Cholera Infantum, cures all Bowel Complaints, cures Teething Sore, etc. at drug stores. Total bottle free. Made only by DR. D. FAHNEY & SONS, ELIZABETHTOWN, MD.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know It.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What To Do.
There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, cures all ailments arising from kidney trouble, such as backache, rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and causing pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for the wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Sons of Swamp-Root Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root. Dr. Kilmer's, Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

THE HORSESHOE

Its Use as a Charm Against Bad Luck and Evil Spirits.

In Morocco iron is considered a great protection against demons, who are the literal representatives, after all, of the hostile spirits; hence it is usual to place a knife or dagger under a sick man's pillow, his illness being, of course, attributed to demoniacal possession. In India the mourner who performs the necessary but somewhat dangerous duty of putting fire into the dead man's mouth carries a key or a knife in his hand to keep off the evil spirits. In short, a bit of iron is a very useful thing to have about you at any time if you desire to escape the unfavorable attention of the ghosts, the trolls, the fairies and the demons generally. This good reason for buying a pocketknife. It is also a reason for nailing up a horseshoe. "But why a horseshoe in particular," you ask, "more than any other odd piece of iron?" Well, primarily the good luck depends more upon the iron as iron than on the special shape or function of the horseshoe as a horseshoe.

But there are also many reasons why the superstition should happen to fix itself more particularly upon horseshoes. We must remember that in Europe at least it is the cattle, the horses and the domestic beasts in general that are specially liable to the hostile attacks of "the little people." Therefore the elves and trolls are most likely to be dreaded on farms or in the country, where horses and cattle most do congregate. Now, if you want to nail up a bit of iron as a protection against the fiery darts of the evil ones on your stables or cow houses, which is the place where one oftenest sees them, nothing is more likely to come handy to your purpose than a cast horseshoe. Besides it has obvious congruity for the place and object, and it can readily be picked up in the road almost anywhere. Furthermore, it is provided beforehand with convenient holes, by means of which you can readily hang it up, either over your own house door or over your sheds and stables. These various advantages of cheapness, ease and readiness for fixing would have given the horseshoe a fair start in life, it is believed, as a charm against fairies, trolls and evil spirits generally, even without any other more special advantages.—Cornhill Magazine.

A Cheerful Colored Parson.
The visitor in the south was offering his sympathies to the old colored parson.

"It's a shame, uncle," said the visitor, "that the congregation should drop buttons in the plate when you were collecting your salary."

"Dat doan mattah, sah," replied the old man, with a luminous smile. "Ah kin use dem on dat old path ob trousers de kernal gib me."

"Well, they dropped nails in the plate also."

"Just what I need, sah. Yo' see, Ah'm guine to build a cohn house, an' Ah'll need de nails to drive in de shingles."

"But the lead nickels. What are you going to do with them, throw them away?"

"No, sah. Ah'm guine to make tinkers foh mah fishin' lines. Glory halleluyah!"—Chicago News.

Apple Water.
Apple water is a refreshing drink for an invalid. It can be made with either baked or raw apples, the former to be preferred when time is short, especially if the apples are baked and in readiness. They should be sour and when cold should be immersed in boiling water to cover them. Let them stand until cool, then strain and sweeten to taste. For the liquor made from raw apples three or four juicy sour apples of fine flavor should be pared and sliced. Pour over them two cupsful of boiling water and let them stand three hours. Strain, sweeten and add a small piece of ice. A pleasant flavor is added if the rind of a lemon is mixed with the slices of apple.

Gems In Verse

"Tis not the food, but the content,
That makes the table's merriment.
Where trouble serves the board we eat
A little pickin with a bit
Of mutton or of veal in it,
Set on my table, trouble free,
More than a feast contenteth me."
—Herick.

HIS GRACE'S SUSPENDERS.

Clever Ruse by Which Wellington's Autograph Was Secured.

Toward the latter years of the Duke of Wellington's life it was next to impossible to coax or wheedle his autograph out of him. All the stratagems used to get a reply from him to letters failed. He either did not answer them at all or directed his private secretary to do so, and thus the famous signature of "Wellington" became a rarity highly prized by collectors.

Among the London ladies who had an album garnished with the autographs of most of the great men of the day, but wanted that of the "great captain." She mentioned her distress to a friend, a certain Mr. H., and a few days after he, to her great surprise and pleasure, brought her a note from the hand of the victor of Waterloo. It ran thus:

"Field Marshal the Duke of Wellington never ordered a pair of braces of Messrs. Simpkin. If F. M. the Duke of Wellington had ordered the article, he could not forget it. F. M. the Duke of Wellington always pays for his braces."

This was a very odd document for a lady's album, but its authenticity was undoubted, and it therefore found the best place in the interesting collection. The way in which this singular note was elicited was this:

Mr. H. filled up one of the bankrupt court forms and signed it, informing the duke that in winding up the affairs of Messrs. Simpkin he (the assignee) found on their books the sum of 6s. 6d. due by his grace for a pair of braces, which he requested the duke would immediately pay or have paid. Mr. H.'s ruse was founded on pure fiction, but it succeeded.

The Welsh Servant Girl.

She came into the drawing room (there were visitors present) and said: "If you please, William Hughes has come. He says he has no head and has sold his tongue." This extraordinary information startled me for a moment until I remembered that I had ordered a calf's head and an ox tongue of Hughes, the local butcher. Another Welsh maiden in South Wales sent in a singular message one evening by my English maid. She brought "Mrs. Griffith's love, and she hoped my strange people were well after their journey." Mrs. Griffith, a near neighbor, had called in the morning and been told by me that I expected relatives, whom she had met, from Wanda-worth that afternoon, so she had sent polite inquiries, and as visitors are in the Welsh language designated strangers, the Welsh servant had, for the benefit of the English one, translated it into "strange people."—London Spectator.

An Insect Curiosity Shop.

Properly considered, a beehive is a wonderful shop, and each individual insect is a curiosity. The inhabitants of a hive are classed as drones, workers and queen. The queen is the mother of every insect in the hive, unless she has been installed instead of a queen who has died and left the hive without a mistress. This queen bee is the wonder of the whole insect tribe as far as egg laying is concerned, often depositing 4,000 eggs a day for days in succession during the most productive season. The chief wonder connected with the worker bee is the admirable manner in which his body is shaped and fitted with instruments for honey gathering. These natural instruments consist of cups, combs, brushes, knives, funnels, scrapers, etc., each of which is worthy of a week of careful and painstaking study under a high grade microscope.

Where the Bird Felt Safe.

A city gentleman was invited down to the country for "a day with the birds." Whatever his powers in finance, his shooting was not remarkable for its accuracy, to the great disgust of the man in attendance, whose tip was generally regulated by the size of the bag. "Dear me," at last exclaimed the sportsman, "but the birds seem exceptionally strong on the wing this year!"

"Not all of 'em, sir," came the remark. "You've shot at the same bird about a dozen times. 'F's a-follerin' you about, sir."

"Following me about? Nonsense! Why should a bird do that?"

"Well, sir, came the reply, "I dunno, I'm sure, unless 'e's 'angin' round you for safety."—London

A Silence Club.

Some time ago a curious club was formed in London. It was called the Silence Club. Its membership was limited to ten, all of whom were season ticket holders on a London suburban railway, and the subscription was sixpence weekly. It was established simply and solely to enable the members to read the paper on the way to town, the only occasion during the day on which the club met. The revenue derived from subscriptions was handed to the guard every Saturday morning, and in consideration of this he made a point of reserving a carriage for the members.

BURNSIDE'S ROMANCE.

Jilted at the Altar When a Young Man by a Kentucky Girl.

The story of the life of General Burnside is the sweetest morsel of patriotic reminiscence possessed by Liberty, says the Liberty correspondent of the Indianapolis News. He is the idol of local history. Liberty has only one other love—Joanna Miller, "the poet of the Sierras." Burnside and Miller were born at the gates of this old town, and the boyhood days of both were spent within its borders.

In December, 1851, Lieutenant Burnside returned from the Mexican war to Liberty for a visit, and while there he met a young woman from Kentucky. He fell in love almost at first glance, and the affection appeared to be reciprocated. They became engaged, and preparations for the wedding were made in the Kentucky home of the promised bride. The ceremony was to take place in a church, and numerous guests had assembled to witness it.

Burnside and his sweetheart marched down the aisle to the music of a wedding march and took their places before the altar. The clergyman received the vow from the bridegroom and turned to the bride to ask if she was ready to take him as a husband. The assemblage was astounded when the woman before the altar stammered "No!" and broke the hand clasp. She then hurried from the church, followed by Burnside and the astonished wedding guests.

For years that sensational wreck of a youthful dream had an effect on him, and he had little to do with the gentler sex. He had the satisfaction of hearing a few months after he was jilted that the young woman had married another man under threat. She had boasted that she would serve him as she had Burnside. On the way to the church, however, the bridegroom drew a revolver from his pocket and said: "You are to be one of two things—my wife or a corpse."

The hint was sufficient, and the trifler with masculine affections gave an affirmative answer to the questions of the minister.

Prior to the civil war Burnside married Miss Mary Bishop.

Upset Clerical Dignity.

The minister who had the reputation of never relaxing from his dignity was trying to prove to a few congenial friends that the reputation was not deserved. "Why, one day I laughed right out in the pulpit," he said, "and I did not get over the disgrace of it for several weeks. But it was one of those times when my sense of humor got the better of my ministerial calm."

"It was one hot summer day, and my church was very close to a house. The windows of the church were open, and we could hear distinctly the murmur of voices next door. I had just offered prayer, and there was the intense silence which always follows an invocation. In the solemn silence a woman's harsh voice screamed:

"John, where are the nails?" And a gruff voice answered:

"In the collopnet, you fool. You put them there yourself."

Abolished Death.

The problems of life and death, most people, to say the least of it, puzzle most people, are lightly disposed of by the child. A little girl, coming in contact with death for the first time in the shape of a lifeless bird that she found in the wood, ran with it to her nurse, according to the London Chronicle. "What can be the matter with it?" she cried in amazement. The nurse, of course, improved the occasion. "The bird is dead," she said portentously. "We must all die some day." The little girl looked at the small corpse in her hand contemplatively, then dropped it with some disgust. "You may die if you want to," she remarked. "I shan't."

He Didn't Haft.

He was one of those unruly youngsters who make the life of a public schoolteacher a hard one. He was in the primary grade. He came in one morning with dirty hands and face. The teacher looked at him severely.

"Johnny?"

"Yes'm."

"Have you washed your face and hands this morning?"

"No'm."

"Why not?"

"None of the folks is home, an' I don't haft to."

Choice of Evil.

Jack—So you are engaged to Miss Gotrox, I understand.

Tom—You have said it.

Jack—Well, I hardly know whether to congratulate you or not. She is very exacting, I hear, and if you marry her you will have to give up drinking and smoking.

Tom—Oh, well, it might be worse. If I don't marry her I'll probably have to give up eating.

A Fair Exchange.

A man who had purchased some current buns at a bakery was distressed on starting to eat one to find that it contained a fly. Returning to the bakery, he made an indignant complaint, demanding another bun in place of the inhabited one.

"I'm sorry, sir," said the saleswoman. "I can't give you another bun, but if you will bring me back the fly I will give you a current for it."—Harper's Weekly.

VIRGINIA SCHOOLS

Some Results of Want of Public High Schools

The old private academies which supplied secondary education to our fathers have declined and nothing has taken their place in most instances. A great gulf is fixed between the elementary school and the college, which militates seriously against public welfare.

Boys and girls of genius, possessing qualities of leadership, are lost to the State, as social, moral, civic and religious leaders. The influence of the colleges for good is greatly limited by limiting the actual number of students who are prepared to enter these higher institutions, and receiving their benefits, transmit them back to their communities. Such a chasm between the great people's school and the colleges isolates the colleges from the life of the people. It blocks the way of college students in their attempt to find congenial life as teachers in the public schools. The violent contrast existing between elementary school subjects and the subjects recently pursued by the college man or woman is so great as not to attract teachers from the ranks of college graduates. But the high school branches are more nearly related to those of the college, the graduate feels more competent to teach them and he is readily induced to accept positions in the high schools. Once connected with the public school system his sympathies are inevitably engaged, he lends his superior knowledge and training and his influence to the improvement of those schools from which his own pupils must be drawn.

In Virginia it is the case that the elementary school does not to any extent draw renewed power from advanced schools and thus it revolves about itself. The teachers come from the ranks of the elementary school and for this reason can not improve the conditions of the elementary school. This question has been investigated in fifteen other States showing that no State has an adequate elementary school system which has not also a secondary school system. Virginia's system of elementary schools, graded or ungraded, will not rise much higher than they now are, regardless of the amount of money expended upon them, until there is a public high school system established to stimulate their growth and pull them up. Another of the deplorable results of the lack of more and better equipped high schools in Virginia: we have found to be the decrease in attendance in the upper grammar grades. The brighter pupils, without an object of hope to attract their unusual mental activities, lose interest when they recognize that there is nothing further to engage their post-powers of genius, hence they abandon prematurely the elementary school. Thus the efficiency of the teachers in the public elementary schools, the attendance of the pupils in these schools, and the opportunity for the creation of a company of men and women as leaders in our rural and urban life are at present all impaired.

Thomas Jefferson nearly a hundred years ago in planning a high school system for Virginia, which his followers have delayed until now to put operation, said: "By that part of our plan which prescribes the selection of youths of genius from among the classes of the poor we hope to avail the State of those talents which are sown as liberally among the poor as the rich, but which perish without use, if not sought for and cultivated." Shall we delay longer in Virginia to offer the same opportunity to the boy or girl living in the country district that we do to the child in the cities?

Wedding of Two Apes

A dispatch from Mt. Carmel, Ill., says: In the presence of a large company, including many prominent business men, Bismarck, a big ape, who has made his home at the Letto Hotel, married Miss Evolution, another member of the same tribe.

The bride arrived on the evening train, and was looking her best. Judge J. H. Hanning officiated, and the ceremony was very solemn and impressive. George Laubender was best man, and John Kesh "maid of honor."

Sheriff Barry gave the bride away. Refreshments were served. Announcement cards have been sent out. Mr. and Mrs. Bismarck began housekeeping at the Letto, where they are at home to their many friends.

Great Financier

One day recently Russell Sage, aged about 84 years, drove down to his office in New York City in a fast automobile, to meet the financial situation there and to help the boys out of temporary straits. Within three hours he loaned out $30,000,000 at 85 and 90 per cent. on call, and cleared in that time $70,000. On leaving his office his fatherly injunction was, "don't press the boys," and he picked up his traps and returned to his home. When he had closed operations money jumped to 125 and then when back to 70.

Many Sufferers

from nasal catarrh say they get splendid results by using a nostril spray. For their benefit Dr. J. C. L. Liquid Cream Balm. Except that it is in all respects like the healing, helpful, painless cream Balm that the public has been familiar with for years. No cocaine, nor other dangerous drug in it. The soothing spray relieves one and cure is certain. All druggists, 75c. including spraying tube or mailed by Dr. J. C. L. 50 Warren Street, New York City, N. Y.

CONDENSED NEWS

Brief Items of Interest for the Busy Reader

The United States Court at Cincinnati rendered a decision upholding the validity of the Chinese Exclusion act of April 7, 1904.

Both houses of the Kentucky General Assembly last Wednesday elected Judge T. H. Paynter United States Senator, to succeed J. C. S. Blackburn.

A theft of $10,000 worth of diamonds under most mysterious circumstances was reported to the Cincinnati police by Mrs. A. Ravagelli, wife of Dr. Ravagelli.

Women are on all committees appointed by the revolutionists in Russia to administer the affairs of the Baltic provinces where only civil marriages are regarded.

Governor D. C. Heyward of South Carolina, in his message to the Legislature, calls for a correction of the dispensary laws and declares his purpose to have lynchers punished.

Roosevelt is to have a handsome new mark 85 by 335 feet and furnished with all the modern appliances. It is to be owned and controlled by a stock company, capitalized at $100,000.

Over 100 midshipmen have written to Congressmen asking for a "square deal" and objecting to a few first class men being made "goats." "Give us the opportunity to give our word and there will be no more hazing," said one man.

In the presence of several hundred persons the bronze heroic statue of Severn Teackle Wallis, the distinguished Maryland jurist, erected in the south end of Washington Square, Baltimore, was unveiled Thursday afternoon.

Rev. J. A. McCune, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Front Royal, has been appointed the financial agent of the Union Theological Seminary, Richmond. Mr. McCune has been entrusted with the task of raising $30,000 before May 1.

The largest new born baby on record arrived at the home of Frank Cocheal, a railroad engineer at Conestoga, Pa., last Saturday. The baby, when dressed, weighed 20 pounds, 10 ounces. President Roosevelt has been notified.

The State Corporation Commission has granted a charter to the Fitchburg Ice Monument Association. The purpose of the association is to be the erection and preservation in the city of Richmond of an equestrian statue of Gen. Fitz Lee.

The Lynchburg Board of Aldermen by a vote of 5 to 2, concurred in an ordinance, the effect of which, when approved by Mayor Smith, will be to remove every street display from the fronts of stores in that city, excepting fruit stands and such goods as may be shown in a show case.

A dispatch from Spartansburg, S. C., says that Rev. E. B. Bomar, of Richmond, Va., has resigned as corresponding secretary of the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist convention. Dr. Bomar, who is visiting there, says he took the step on account of declining health.

William Rainey Harper, L. L. D., president of the University of Chicago since its inception in 1891, regarded by many as the foremost Hebrew scholar in America, and equally renowned as educator and business man, died last Wednesday of cancer of the intestines at his home on the University campus. He was 49 years old.

Berkley, a suburban town of 10,000 inhabitants, has been formally annexed to Norfolk as the Berkley ward by the order of Judge T. Garnett, sitting in the Norfolk County Circuit Court. The city is to expend in Berkley ward each year for five years $20,000 and to provide for the territory taken in eight paid firemen, one sergeant of police and nine patrolmen. It is to assume $83,000 of 5 per cent. bonds issued by the School Board of Washington district and $30,000 as the share of the town of Berkley in the debt of Norfolk county.

The Board of Trustees of Richmond College have unanimously elected Governor A. J. Montague a professor in the law department. He will accept the appointment, his engagement to begin immediately after his retirement from the gubernatorial office. The Governor will begin a course of lectures before the class next month. It is believed that the ability and national reputation of the Governor will be the means of bringing high prestige to the school. He is a graduate of Richmond College, and has for a long time been a trustee of that institution. The Governor will not only teach classes in the law school, but will be made dean of the department as soon as the by-laws of the institution can be changed to conform.

Many Sufferers

from nasal catarrh say they get splendid results by using a nostril spray. For their benefit Dr. J. C. L. Liquid Cream Balm. Except that it is in all respects like the healing, helpful, painless cream Balm that the public has been familiar with for years. No cocaine, nor other dangerous drug in it. The soothing spray relieves one and cure is certain. All druggists, 75c. including spraying tube or mailed by Dr. J. C. L. 50 Warren Street, New York City, N. Y.